24H NATA PBM MARATHON

Global education without borders

Launched in 2023, the 24H NATA PBM Marathon is preparing for its third edition – now scheduled for January, marking the start of a new year of worldwide PBM education. The move to January positions the event strategically ahead of the NATA annual congress, strengthening visibility and continuity across NATA's educational activities.

This unique 24-hour virtual event unites anaesthesia and PBM societies from around the world to share expertise and promote best practice in Patient Blood Management. Up to 20 societies each host a 60-minute live webinar, forming a continuous programme that follows the sun: beginning with Latin and Central America, moving through North America and Canada, Australia and New Zealand, Asia, Africa, the Middle East, and North Africa, before concluding with a finale in Europe led by NATA.

Participation is free for both societies and individual attendees. Each society designs its own programme and selects expert speakers, presenting in English or the local language. NATA provides the platform, 24-hour technical coordination, administration, and global promotion. All sessions are recorded and made available for on-demand viewing on the NATA website. The Marathon attracts thousands of healthcare professionals worldwide, including clinicians, transfusion specialists, and nurses – offering unparalleled reach and visibility. Your support helps cover the significant production and streaming costs and will be acknowledged on the NATA website, in all promotional materials, and at the start of each session.

Join us in advancing global education in Patient Blood Management – united through NATA and 20+ societies worldwide.
